

She Votes Now & So Do You

This week, we'd like to try something different as we're coming even closer to Election Day.

This week, we need YOUR help to get the word out!

It's imperative that we spread the word and encourage others to vote, but how do we do it exactly?

Most of us encounter more than two people every day whether it's in person or digitally on social media or a video call. If we all take the time to remind our friends, loved ones, and even strangers to vote, voter-turnout will dramatically increase and during one of the most major elections our country has ever experienced, this is imperative.

There are many ways you can spread the word:

Phone Banking- this is one of the most effective ways out there! Many organizations right now are hosting events where they call people in either their own state or other states asking and encouraging people to vote this year.

Texting at least two people- Try texting a family member or a friend this week reminding them to vote! If you also ask them to tell two other people to vote, imagine how many people are going out to vote now because of one simple reminder.

Calling, emailing, and spreading awareness on all social media platforms are also very effective methods as well!

If you want to spread more awareness on social media, try narrative telling. Tell your viewers and followers why YOU vote and why you believe it's important for others to do so as well. By encouraging others and inspiring them with your own personal story, you're connecting with them on an entirely other level beyond just posting and sharing an Instagram story.

This week, the She Votes Now team encourages you to share your narrative, make sure to tag or mention us and use the #SheVotesNow hashtag! This tag doesn't just belong to us, it belongs to you too, because you have the right to vote now. We'd love to share your stories and posts on our account here as well!

Tell us your story down below! Whether you've been voting for five years now or it's your first time voting, we'd love to see and read why the right to vote is so important to you.
